Core Value Ratings

0: No connection. You were taught to believe in something, but you don't.

2: You will support the rights of others to follow this Core Value, and argue for your own rights.

4: You will argue for others' rights, and will organize and suffer jail time for your own.

6: You will organize and suffer jail time for others' rights.

8: You will die for your own rights and the rights of others.

10: Utterly indomitable beliefs. No force can convince you to go against them, no matter how persuasive.

You can choose whatever rating you like — high scores are as much a handicap as an advantage.

CVs and Zealotry

High Core Values are typically associated with religious zealots, suicide bombers, and the like. However, this need not be true. People with a Core Value like Charity are not required to live in the gutter after giving all their possessions away, and are certainly under no compulsion to steal from the rich to give to the poor (though they might quietly approve of such things). It is possible to have very strong beliefs and never once become violent because of them. Sadly, the majority of the universe doesn't see it that way.
